City Council Ponders Fate of Albany Hill

"What to do with Albany ill?" has been the question be- e Albany these last weeks, and was broached again by Council embers at Monday's July 24 gular meeting.

During the regular business ssion of the meeting, the Coun- set a public hearing for the anting of a use permit to In- state General Corporation, by vote of four ayes and one ab- ention (Councilman Richard ark). The hearing is to be gust 21.

During the good of the city rtion of the meeting, Herbert ubin, although calling the IGC an "quite comprehensive and e most ambitious presented to City," said that a use permit hearing "is premature" at this time.. Rubin suggested that the present date for the hearing is much too soon, and that public hearings should first take place on the impact of the project.

In the course of the discussion following his suggestion, Rubin was answered by all the Council members. Councilman Lewis Howell remarked that the "sooner we can get a public hearing, the sooner we can get community participation. I want to get everyone in Albany to participate in this discussion and this is the reason for the public hearing." And Councilman George Hein said that "There is no limit to the number of public hearings we can have." Mayor Carlevaro said, "That with the tremendous publicity the project has received in he news media that it is important to start while it is fresh in people's minds."

However, Councilman Richard Clark threw the ball back to the Planning and Zoning Commission by saying that "The zoning change is more important than the use permit because it might be the city doesn't want a zoning change. The magnitude of this project is such that we must talk about first things first, and zoning comes first."

In answer, Rubin stressed that there are a number of projects in mind. He called on the City Council to call all planners together so that "the plans for Albany Hill may be reviewed as a unit." Calling this an "organic change" for Albany, he suggested that it will take "the citizens as long to do their work" as it did the developers.

Closing the discussion, Clark said it is necessary to "plan the whole hill, not just piece by piece. We must attempt to plan far-reaching plans for what to do with Albany Hill."

Laurie Roach, secretary for the "Friends of Albany Hill" had another suggestion for the Hill's planning. Roach requested "that the Council immediately appoint a committee for the planning of the Hill." She presented the Council with a partial list of people willing to serve on the committee. She also stated that the "first priority is to have a plan that all can agree on, then to entertain developers proposals." In response Councilman Howell called the list "very select" and said that he preferred that they "go out into neighborhoods and appoint people without their minds made up."

Also concerning Albany Hill, Mrs. Mary Culley of Madison Avenue, addressed a letter to the City Council saying, "I have heard many proposals for developing Albany Hill and this one makes sense. I strongly urge you to take the necessary steps, immediately, to make it possible." Ending her letter Mrs. Culley stated that "This development would benefit everyone in Albany."

ibrary Hosts Mother Goose'

Well it was all explained non- nsibly by Mother Goose, who ew in disguised at Robin Good- llow, at the Albany Library. To group of about 200 boiterous ildren, she explained that a eacock named Henry, naturally, as depressed because of his in- bility to fly and sing like the her birds. But Henry had one ique asset: imagination, or the bility to see things that aren't ere. So, that's the function of l those eyes!

Robin Goodfellow also cut out imals for each of the children. sing only scissors she created gs, moose, mice, horses, flying rses, and elephants to the ooes d ahs of the watching children. fter each child had received an imal, she then cut out animals r the library, which were more ncy and fanciful. These cut- uts are on display in the library.

Council Ups Taxes 25¢

$1.99 is the new tax rate for Albany as approved by the City Council, July 24. The new rate for 1972-73 is a raise of 25 cents over last year's $1.74.

In discussion over the budget, Councilman Richard Clark reiterated his desire that $15,000 be set aside for open space acquisition in the budget. The budget as approved has the money existing in an "open, rather than earmarked" position, according to Councilman Hubert Call, and this makes it more "flexible." Councilman Clark's move to amend the budget to name in the budget these funds for open space acquisition specifically, died for lack of a second.

Clark reasoned that if the opportunity should come up for matching State or Federal funds for such open space acquisition, then local funds would be assured. Councilman George Hein, who is also Finance Chairman, said "That I am not confident of Councilman Clark's reasoning, and if the question of matching funds does come up then we can come up with the money."

Resolution No. 72-53, setting the budget without amendment was passed unanimously.

During the meeting, Councilman Clark formally resigned his position as head of the Waterfront Interagency Planning Council and moved that Mayor Joe Carlevaro be appointed in his stead. The resolution was accepted unanimously.

The Council also proclaimed Friday ,August 18, to be "All-Star Football Classic Day." August 14 has been set for the public hearing of Mr. Bernard Choden's rezoning request for a Solano Avenue property.

Ralph Hill Regent For Kennedy U

Hill received a Bachelor of Science degree from the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy in 1945 and a Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of California, Berkeley, in 1948. He is a member of the Commonwealth Club of California, Naval Order of the United States, Berkeley Manufacturers Association, and is a life member of Sigma Chi fraternity.

Hill also serves as director of the East Bay Chapter of the National Safety Council and is foreman of the Contra Costa Grand Jury. In addition, he is the State President of the Navy League of the United States and a past national director of that League. He has also served as president of the Richmond Rotary Club, Richmond Industrial Council, the East Bay Lumbermen's Association and as Director of the Richmond Chamber of Commerce and is the immediate past president of the Albany Chamber of Commerce.

"The Regents are honored indeed that Mr. Hill has agreed to serve on the governing board of the University," said Dr. Harry L. Morrison, University President.

Environmentalist's Study On IGD Project's Impact

The retainment of Albany Hill as open space or its development for tax revenue is a topic of utmost importance to Albany citizens at this time.

In a report prepared for the proposed Interstate General Development project, Environmental Impact Planning Corporation dealt with the environmental pros and cons of this project.

According to the report, "Twelve acres of rather undistinguished open space land and the alteration of a scenic open space landmark (Albany Hill) will be the principal resource casualties of the proposed development." The report then goes on to state that in the 1985 General Plan of Albany the entire area was to be given over to high density housing with the exception of the very crest. Says the report, "The resource commitment then would be significantly less under this proposed project than the kind of wall-to-wall sprawl that might have taken place had the entire site been developed into medium rise residential structures."

One alternative plan discussed by the environmentalists' report is that the area be left in permanent open space, necessitating, however, that the site be purchased either by the City of Albany or some other public agency, such as the East Bay Regional Park District. The report states in conclusion that "Officials of these two agencies indicate that they do not have the funds available for acquisition of this property, and public purchase therefore appears unlikely."

Of other plans, the report says "Many other alternatives for lower density development could be considered; however, they all appear to have two major flaws in that a) they are not economically viable and b) they would need to utilize the total project area and thus irreversibly and irretrievably commit the open space resource which would under the proposed development, be retained."

The report deals with the environmental impact of the project on the surrounding area. Concerning aesthetic impact, "The construction of 20 high rise towers over a four-story parking platform will significantly change the way in which the Hill is seen in the Bay Area. The project architects have taken great care to integrate the development with the Hill, so that the new view, while certainly different, will not produce an aesthetic deterioration."

Another factor is Albany's present wet weather water pollution problem which must be solved before the project could be started. Flooding in the area can be prevented according to the report by increasing the size of the culverts. Concerning the vegetation of the area, the project "would result in the removal of some vegetation. This vegetation would be mainly grass and eucalyptus trees of minor value. The more pleasant, mainly native, vegetative communities are located to the east of the proposed development and will, for the most part, remain intact as permanent open space."

The structures will interfere with existing fog and wind patterns, causing the slopes to become drier. According to the report, "A desireable side effect of the decrease in moisture might be an increase in coast live oak growth."

Dealing with the animal population of Albany Hill, the report says that "There are no endangered wildlife species on Albany Hill. With the exception of the displacement of a few birds and rodents on the building site, little disruption in wildlife would take place."

Of all the factors of environmental concern, perhaps, the only major one is that "The site is located about one mile from the Hayward and two miles from the San Pablo fault." The risk of damage for the larger portion of the project is "minimized" because "the structures will be placed directly onto the basically firm Franciscan bedrock. However, the northwesterly corner of the site, which is relatively level, is underlain by fill of variable quality and soft and compressible bay mud deposits."

BBB: Beware

The Better Business Bureau calls attention to unauthorized invoices for listings in proposed Telex Directories which are again making the rounds in the East Bay. The companies operate out of Switzerland, West Germany, South Africa, Australia, and England. U.S. Postal Service has taken action against a number of such firms to prevent them from receiving mail posted in the United States. BE ON GUARD. Invoices range from $25 to $125.

Jaycees Plan Curb Painting

The Albany Jaycees (Albany Junior Chamber of Commerce) are intensifying their Curb Painting Project during the summer months. House numbers will be stencilled in black on a bright lemon yellow background. The paint is a durable plastic mixture and numbers will be either 3" or 4", depending on size of curb. Numbers are applied to both side and top of curb.

According to project chairman Leo DeFond, funds derived from this project are earmarked for betterment of the City of Albany. "Although we have completed various sections throughout Albany during previous years, we hope to cover the entire city this year," said DeFond.

"We are not without competition on this project as a Berkeley resident and student has obtained a license and is soliciting the city for curb painting also. He is doing so for personal profit only, and using smaller 2½" stencils.

"We ask that you reserve your curb painting for the Albany Jaycees and we encourage citizens to submit any suggestions on projects beneficial to our city."

Two Albanyites On Dean's List

Two Albany residents attending California State University at Hayward, Laurel Egenberger and Lloyd Reist, earned places on the Dean's List.

Of the total student body, 420 students make the Dean's List. To be included on the Dean's List at Cal State Hayward a student must be carrying 12 or more units of study and have a grade point average of 3.75. Both Laurel and Lloyd did better than that by being straight A (4.0) students for the Spring Quarter.

Interstate General Development Unfolds Albany Hill Proposal

THE FUTURE LOOK of Albany Hill? This is a photograph of the model in City Hall representing the Interstate General Development, Inc.'s plans for the Hill.

By Dorothy McCain Elsenius

Interested Albany residents overflowed the Council Chambers late last Wednesday afternoon, to hear plans for a project that would literally create a "city within a city" on Albany Hill . . . an urban community that would have a highly favorable impact on this city's tax base, while still preserving 2/3 of the Hill for "open space"—a community that would also be of major significance to the future residential patterns of the whole Bay Area.

Principal speakers at the meeting were Robert O'Donnell, planning consultant representing the planning firm of Harman, O'Donnell & Henninger Associate of Denver, Colorado, and Harry C. Hallenbeck from the Oakland architectural firm of Goetz, Hallenbeck & Goetz, designers of the project.

Hallenbeck informed the audience that the design had been guided most strongly by response to environmental concerns, visual impact, and the need to preserve the Hill's most important "open space." He explained that private development on the Hill had been slowed by the excessive costs of small projects on its difficult slopes. He further noted that the best potential for a large scale development would be the total concept of a coordinated development such as this, at the westerly base of the Hill, which would preserve and enhance the natural wooded slopes and open space — a development which would achieve an overall feeling of quality, blending the man-made facilities with the natural setting, while eliminating the "housing project" image often the result of large scale developments.

The plan, as presented, would consist of 2,500 dwelling units to be constructed on a 12-acre triangular area at the base of Albany Hill, fronting on Pierce Street and edged by Cerrito Creek. The units would include 2,320 studio, one and two bedroom apartments and 180 two and three bedroom townhouses. These units would be clustered in buildings from two to 25 stories in height, constructed on a landscaped plaza. The sculpture of varying building heights and locations would provide an overall texture to the plan, thus achieving a unity to the development and enhancing the uniqueness of the site.

Recreational features to specifically serve the residents of the project would include tennis courts, swimming pools, handball courts, sauna baths, etc., within the project boundaries. Landscaped garden courts, terraces and patios, as well as hillside paths and picnic areas, would be available to enhance the environment of the resident as well as the visitor.

Small commercial "specialty" shops would dot the central plaza area, and a service station and automobile oriented shops would be in the lower level parking areas, which would provide parking for 2,542 cars in four levels.

Only two residents rose to question the speakers and the chief concern of both, Herbert Rubin and Dario Menketti, was what would be done with the remaining 24 acres owned by the developer. Hallenbeck indicated that Interstate General Development, Inc., would dedicate as much of the remaining property to the City as it could properly maintain, to provide permanent open space for naturalist-oriented use and family-type recreation, to fully accomplish the prime objectives of the proposed Parks and Recreation General Plan.

Mayor Joe Carlevaro, who had previously adopted a "wait and see" attitude, was enthusiastic about the presentation. He was joined by Councilman Lewis Howell, who said it was the most complete presentation he had seen in his 20 years on the Council. "This could be the best thing that ever happened to Albany," he commented.

City Administrator James Turner, while stating that the plan would take a "great deal of study," also appeared enthusiastic as did the majority of the audience, who stayed, following the conclusion of the meeting, to question the speakers, examine the many pictures and graphs, and cluster around the huge model of the city and the proposed development, which was placed in the City Hall entrance hall.

Consultants for the project include: landscape architects Sasaki, Walter Associates, Incorporated, Sausalito; Environmental Impact Planning Corporation, San Francisco; civil engineers Wilsey & Ham, Foster City; structural engineers Shapiro-Okino-Hom and Associates, San Francisco; Cooper-Clark & Associates, soils engineers from Palo Alto; San Francisco acoustical engineers Bolt Beranek and Newman, Inc., and Lee Saler, Inc., of Walnut Creek, cost engineers.

IGD Project Study Shows School Surplus

As part of the presentation for Interstate General Development's proposed Albany Hill project, Harman, O'Donnell and Henninger Associates, Inc., prepared an Economic Impact study.

In regard to the school district, the complex will add 324 students to the schools, and the total cost to educate these students would be $296,505. This figure was based on the average education cost of $915.14 per student per year.

With an estimated building cost of $62,400,000, the Albany Hill Development will have an assessed value of $15,600,000. Therefore, the Albany Hill Development, upon completion, would generate an operating revenue of $934,440.

Booster Club Raising Funds

A newly formed Albany Pop Warner Booster Club will be canvassing the Albany-Berkeley area seeking advertisements for the League's 1972 football program. This drive began last week and will continue through August 10.

The program will be the major fund raiser for the league, according to the Booster Club's chairman, Bob Flynn.

Forty-five boys have signed up for the team and each boy's parents have pledged their active support in setting up a potentially successful season.

'Dial-a-Ride' Experiment

Door-to-door transportation that can be summoned by a phone call will be explored by AC Transit to attract more people to bus riding—and to help meet the needs of groups with limited mobility.

If the Dial-a-Ride concept is inaugurated in an East Bay area, small, maneuverable vehicles would be available to provide a high degree of convenience to people who now are using automobiles.

The service stresses flexibility in routes and hours of operation —a major reason given by high mobility groups for shunning use of the bus for urban travel.

At the same time, Dial-a-Ride would provide service for those with limited mobility—the elderly, the young, the handicapped, the non-driver and those without access to a car.

General Manager Alan L. Bingham, who has proposed the East Bay as a transit laboratory to explore different modes of travel, was authorized by the AC Transit board of directors at a meeting July 12, to take steps to secure a study grant to select a specific geographic location for such a system.

Bingham proposed seeking a minimum two-thirds grant from the Urban Mass Transportation Administration to fund the technical study necessary to prepare a preliminary design for the system.

The study would be made under the direction of the Metropolitan Transportation Commission and would be tied in with an existing AC Transit-BART coordination project. The transit agencies and MTC already have joined in the latter program to determine if coordinated services offered in the initial bus-rail operation are satisfactory to people and if not, what further improvements are needed.

The study project for on-call transportation is estimated to cost approximately $40,000 and to require 12 weeks of work by an experienced team. The study would determine need for the specialized transit, where it would work best, what technological know-how is needed and how to implement the service.

If results of the technical study are favorable, actual installation of a Dial-a-Ride system would require an additional grant for purchase of equipment.

Great Trip East For Postmaster

The Carlsons spent most of their time on a brother-in-law's ranch, the J. & B. Arabian Ranch. Although the ranch boasts several prize-winning Arabian horses, Bob ruefully admitted that his mount was "Chico," a non-Arabian. He said he had hoped "They would give the horse a sedative" before he rode.

Fishing was great and Bob reports that the streams and lakes are clean and not polluted. A friend caught a 60-pound freshwater sturgeon while the Carlsons were there, and although Bob didn't catch any that big he caught "enough to eat."

Perhaps what struck Bob most was the tremendous growth of the area since the time of their last trip to Minnesota two years ago. New highways and buildings are abundent, and Bob admitted that he "pretty near got lost in my home town." He was "more impressed than anything else" by a 57-story building in Minneapolis partially finished, that they took a midnight tour of. The tour was 3½ hours and not time enough to cover all the territory in this building which covers a whole city clock. This IDS building is mostly offices and a convention hall, but it is the tallest building between Chicago and San Francisco.

During their 7,000 mile trip, the Carlsons drove through Rapid City, South Dakota, on their way home. Bob says that the City is "practically back to normal and there is little evidence of the tragedy. And the people are as friendly and eager to help as before." Their route also included stops in Salt Lake City, Utah, Rowlins and Rusk, Wyoming, and Minot, North Dakota. They drove through the Black Hills country, and stopped at the Mount Rushmore Monument, where the crowds were very small in comparison to past years.

For all those afraid that open space in America is fast disappearing, Bob said that there was still a great deal, with huge cattle herds and ranches, and farmland. Bob observed that most of the ranchers have airplanes, and a barn is rarely seen without an airplane nearby.

The highways are all improved across the country and the people friendly. Bob said that they "didn't have one untoward incident" the whole time they were gone. The only problem the Carlsons encountered was outside Sacramento when a piece of wood flew under their car and punctured their gas tank. A cooperative motorist told them of their predicament and they were able to get safely off the road and finally home.

The Carlsons brought two nieces, Julie and Becky, home with them for a month's visit. Although enjoying the trip very much, Bob said that he was "real, real happy to get home to the Bay Area." And that "the air-conditioning and fog sure looked good."

MEXICO

Mexico, according to the National Automobile Club, covers 450,000 square miles.

Richard Kho Earns Third Mate's Rank

Midshipman Richard Kho, son of Mr. and Mrs. Han Piauw Kho of El Cerrito, graduated from the California Maritime Academy, July 22.

Midshipman Kho, a graduate of Albany High School, majored in Nautical Science at the Academy and was named to the Dean's List for attainment of a 3.0 or better grade point average. He was a member of the Propeller Club, Sailing Club, 1-D Division Commander, and participated in intramural sports.

Richard received a Bachelor of Science Degree in Nautical Science and a United States Coast Guard issued Third Mate's License in the U.S. Merchant Marine.

The California Maritime Academy is one of six institutions of higher education in the United States engaged in the education and training of officers for the Merchant Marine. It is the only one of its kind on the West Coast. The course of study at the Academy concentrates on the special techniques involved in the operation and maintenance of merchant ships and on matters of particular applicability to the maritime industry.

Busy Streets: Danger Area

A busy street is not a safe playground for children of any age, warns the California State Automobile Association. This precept is particularly important for school children during the summer months, when the potential for exposure to traffic is high.

Parents of school-age children should investigate the locations of playgrounds and look for programs being offered by municipal service organizations. Parks, playgrounds, recreational center, museums, libraries, day camps, and summer camps are all better places to be than in or near traffic. Even the back yard or a vacant neighborhood lot will suffice. Adults, too, should always be on guard when driving through residential neighborhoods and school areas where children are likely to be playing.

PG&E Advises How To Save On Electricity

The summer season places demands on a home's electric system but homeowners can take steps to make sure their kilowatt-hours are used efficiently, according to George Conner, manager of Pacific Gas and Electric Company's Berkeley Office. Mr. Conner indicated, however, although PG&E has experienced new record demands this summer, the company has adequate margins of reserve.

"Good insulation properly applied is the main step most home owners can take if any form of air conditioning equipment is operating," he says. "Insulation pays dividends in both summer and winter."

He also suggests that home owners:

—Make sure that air conditioning equipment is not undersized or oversized.

—Take advantage of built-in "coolers" such as closed drapes or shades on the sunny side of the house, a natural-draft or power-operated attic ventilator, and a kitchen exhaust fan that removes excess heat during cooking.

—Plant trees and shrubs as sun screens.

—Weatherstrip windows and doors.

If air conditioning units are equipped with filters, the filter should be inspected frequently and cleaned or replaced whenever necessary.

If you should install a new air conditioner, or an additional one, be sure to contact PG&E to be certain your electric requirements can be met on time.

A full load should be accumulated before appliances like the washer and dishwasher are used, he suggests. This simple step will save both electricity and water, plus the energy that heats the water.

Complete meals can be broiled in the oven with a bit of advance planning. Broiling uses less energy than roasting. A steam heat method of cooking is an effective way to get the most out of a range top where about 80 percent of the cooking occurs. This also preserves the vitamins and minerals in the food.

Householders who have unused freezer space can prepare extra dishes or duplicate recipes for future use with one baking or cooking. An up-to-date inventory of the items in the freezer will minimize the time the freezer door must be kept open.

Another way to improve efficiency of equipment is to be sure it's in proper working order. Strange noises in an air conditioning compressor should be investigated by a qualified serviceman before a breakdown occurs, the PG&E manager says.

Travellers In Mexico Warned About Infection

Travelers to Mexico were warned today to avoid exposure to mosquitoes which might infect them with Venezuelan equine encephalitis (VEE).

The State Department of Public Health said earlier reports from U.S. and Mexican authorities indicated that extensive new outbreaks of the disease are occurring in several regions of south, central, and western Mexico. Fatal cases in horses have been confirmed in Durango, Nayarit, and Guerrero states, and a number of non-fatal human cases have also been reported.

Horses are being vaccinated in an effort to arrest the spread of VEE, according to Dr. Richard Emmons, state public health medical epidemiologist. However, he said there is no vaccine licensed for human use. Travelers in affected areas of Mexico should use insect repellents to reduce the risk of exposure to mosquitoes, Dr. Emmons advised.

The disease spread from Mexico into southern Texas in July, 1971, causing 88 human cases, none of which were fatal, and hundreds of fatal horse cases. Massive federal and state programs to quarantine and vaccinate horses and to control mosquitoes were effective in preventing further spread of the disease in the U.S.

Last year no horse cases occurred in California, and only one human case was detected in a man who had worked during September, 1971, in an epidemic area in Mexico and who returned to California just as symptoms of the disease began. He was not exposed to mosquitoes after his return and no secondary cases resulted.

VEE in man is rarely fatal but may in some cases be severe and temporarily debilitating. Physicians and local county health departments have been alerted to make diagnostic laboratory studies on travelers from epidemic areas who have symptoms which may suggest VEE. Two to five days after exposure to infected mosquitoes, there usually is the sudden onset of fever, chills, nausea and vomiting, severe headache, sore throat, and muscle and joint pains, Dr. Emmons said.

Linda Vila, Lee Felice Wed

Linda Marie Vila, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Vila of Albany, married Lee Philip Felice, July 9, during an after- noon ceremony at St. Ambrose Catholic Church.

Given away by her father, Linda wore a peau de soie em- pire style dress with re-embroid- ered Alencon lace imported from France bordering the high neck- line, long traditional bridal sleeves and hemline. She carried baby white orchids and stepha- notis. Keeping to tradition, the bride wore "something old:" a gold bracelet her grandmother Lico wore at her own wedding 59 years ago.

Linda's attendants were Val- erie Dias as maid of honor, with bridesmaids Gail Cerruti, Joy Dewett, Mrs. Frank Felice, Mrs. Sal Felice, Kim Fernandez, Pearl Washburn, and Claire Felice as flower girl. The attendants wore lilac flower-print organza dress- es and carried purple orchids with baby white carnations.

Lee is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F. Felice of Hollister. His best man was Louis Avalli, a cousin, with Frank Felice, Sal Fe- lice, James Matthews, Russ San- tucci, Joe Vila, Rick Vila, and Joe Felice as ushers, and Pete Fe- llice as ring bearer.

Linda attended Anna Head School and UC Berkeley. Lee at- tended Bellarmine Preparatory School in San Jose, the Universi- ty of Santa Clara, and is pres- ently entering his third year at the University of San Francisco's Law School.

Following the ceremony, a re- ception was held at Hs Lord- ship's Restaurant on the Berke- ley Marina for 400 guests. Among the guests were Linda's grand- parents Mr. and Mrs. Joe Vila of Albany and Mr. and Mrs. Mike Lico of Richmond, and Lee's grandfather, Mr. Sam Donnici of Kansas City, Missouri.

Stuffed Shirts Champs Over T-Shirt Tuffies

JoAnne Greco drove in Patty Salas with one out in the bottom of the ninth inning, propelling the Stuffed Shirts to a 14-13 win over the T-Shirt Tuffies, in the championship game of the Al- bany Park and Recreation De- partment's first annual Girls' Baseball League.

A crowd estimated at 50 per- sons watched the T-Shirt Tuffies overcome an early 10-3 deficit and force the game into extra innings after attaining a 12-12 deadlock after six regulation frames. Each team scored once in the seventh.

Judy Thompson and Renee Fer- nando contributed spectacular defense for the Stuffed Shirts, while Robin Terazawa and Toni Major twice combined to nail the potential winning run at the plate for the T-Shirt Tuffies. Sandy Flavin had five hits for the winners, and Toni Major went six-for-six for the losers.

Chiming In For Nixon's Campaign

Republican volunteers were out ringing precinct doorbells on Saturday, July 15.

"Victory Vanguard" was orga- nized by Y. Charles Soda, who is chairman of the Alameda Coun- ty Committee for the Re-election of the President. Victory Van- guard is a massive statewide reg- istration drive in which the Re- publicans hope to find and reg- ister each and every supporter of President Nixon. Their next door bell ringing day will be Aug- ust 1 for the Albany-Berkeley area.

Sam Dows and John Duncan directed the work in Albany, where 37 volunteers registered 67 people. Response for the day was very good among members of both parties, and there was con- siderable support among Demo- crats for Nixon for November.

CITY OF ALBANY
PARK & RECREATION DEPARTMENT

Schedule of Activities

1000 San Pablo Ave. — Office Hours 8:30 a.m. - 5:00 p.m.

A lively Carnival-Circus was held during Terrace Park's first session of Day Camp, according to Diane Toriakson, Director. The children participated in a variety of fun-filled carnival games. Armen Sarkissian and Bonny Minoggio took first place in the Peanut Roll Race, while Mike Santos and Leo Kay won first prize in the Pin-the-Nose-on-the-Clown game. Madeline Lubic succeeded in taking first prize in the Checker-to-Plate-Toss while Chuckie Coughlin won first place in the ping-pong Throw Through. Ty Kerr came closest to guessing the correct number of beans in the jar, in the Guess-How-Many-Beans-in-the-Jar competition. The children watched a Disney movie about a baby elephant, "Nick," and then prepared themselves for the presentation of their own circus, for the enjoyment of parents, relatives and friends. The circus included circus songs and a ballet routine and a hula dance with cream pies and three strong "men" lifting barbells, and two lion-tamers with four growling lions.

Lost and Found

Memorial and Terrace Parks have lots of miscellaneous clothing left by children in Day Camps. Parents whose children have lost articles of clothing should retrieve them at either of the two parks between July 26 and August 4, 10:00 a.m. and 6:00 p.m.

Summer Day Camps

Registration is now open at the Park and Recreation Department office at the City Hall for the third session of day camp for children ages 6 to 9 at Terrace Park and 6 to 12 at Memorial Park. The cost for the third session is $23.00 for Albany residents and $30.00 for non-residents. Date for the third session is August 7 through August 25.

Maiko Magic: Japanese Food

Whether its fried oysters, salmon teriyaki or tempura (prawns and vegetables dipped in butter and deep fried) the Maiko Japanese Restaurant, 1629 San Pablo Avenue, offers magic in the guise of food.

Mrs. Minori Iwasaki is a proud chef who says "If you haven't tried Japanese food, you owe it to yourself to do so." Mrs. Iwasaki is assisted by her husband, Nobukaza, while the smooth running manager is Takahiro Iio, a young man who enjoys the food business.

Helping to make the meal enjoyable and memorable are seven attractive waitresses, who dress in colorful kimonos, the traditional dress of Japanese women.

Maiko has recently moved to this San Pablo address from a smaller location. Now they are able to accomodate many more customers and have devised a "ticket" system for quicker service. The ticket system allows you to pick out your food before ever being seated and leaves no surprises when the check comes.

Live Wires

"Our Trip to Mexico" will be shown for the Live Wires, Friday, July 28, at 7:30 p.m. at Security Savings and Loan by Vera Ladame. Hostesses for the meeting will be Marie Nelson and Francis Grishman.

Holiday Inn's New Quintet

Giving three shows nightly (9:30, 11:30, 12:30) this five-member group specializes in singing, comedy and instrumental arranging. They are forming their own commercial jingle company also.

Three of the group members, Dino Pozzobon, Don Cloe, and Gus Boss performed as a trio under the name Three Cheers, for eight years. Under their new name they are joined by Rick Burnside and Chet Backus.

In Las Vegas they entertain at the Sands, Frontier, Tropicana and Alladin, while they are seen at Harrah's in both Lake Tahoe and Reno. Viking Records presently has them on contract for their recordings and the group travels widely in the United States and Canada, filling engagements.

Billed as "better than fantastic," the five play a total of 13 different instruments.

Be A Pal To Your Pet

Pets and Pals, an S.P.C.A. organization founded in 1947 by Gladys Sargent, has some helpful hints for pet owners to prevent unwanted and roaming animals.

Pets and Pals mathematically estimated that one unspayed female cat can, in a period of 10 years, increase the animal population by the amazing total of 84,652,644. Not surprisingly, the results of such an increasing animal population are that there are many homeless, wandering, ill-fed dogs and cats on the streets. Pets and Pals recommends that pet-owners stop this soaring pet population by having dogs and cats spayed or altered. Furthermore, experience has shown that an altered animal makes a more satisfactory, sanitary and devoted pet in every way. The ideal age at which to spay a puppy or kitten is 6 to 7 months.

Pets and Pals also recommends that if an accidental breeding has occurred that it is best—for the pets and people—to put the litter to sleep immediately. Unwanted, surplus animals face serious problems such as starvation, freezing, accidents, disease, and cruel treatment.

Instead of causing an animal shortage, treatment such as that recommended by Pets and Pals will allow would-be pet owners to adopt an animal from Pets and Pals that would otherwise be marked for destruction. Pets and Pals has new listings daily of all different kinds of pets for adoption.

Visit Pets and Pals at 6145 Estates Drive, Oakland, or phone 339-2788. They also have a spaying and altering program for half price.

Best Investments Are Parks!

"Growth pressures are escalating in the Bay Area and the bigger the investment the two-county East Bay Regional Park District is willing to make in terms of conservation the better."

That was the message Stewart Udall, former Interior Secretary and now head of "Overview," the environmental planning firm producing EBRPD's 20-year master plan, gave to Park District Directors as he presented his first informal progress report. He was applauded by the audience as he began and ended his report.

"The best investment cities and urban areas have made are in amenities such as parks," he added.

Completion of the master plan is a requirement which must be fulfilled before EBRPD will be eligible for its full 10-cent phased tax increase and Udall sugested that the Park District might wish to consider seeking a bond issue to provide prompt financing as a weapon to beat inflation.

"If you want to go the bond issue route," he explained, "there are new methods and techniques available to 'stretch' your tax dollar.

"Purchase agreements can be made immediately, thus fixing a price and avoiding escalation. You can pay over a period of time when you have a party interested in that."

The Park District, Udall said, has "splendid options to enlarge its parks and to acquire new ones. You are very fortunate in this respect. Some of the rugged country hereabouts protects itself and resists the bulldozers."

"Overview," Udall explained, will be providing the EBRPD Directors with guidelines which will be useful in setting priorities in land and water acquisitions.

In Udall's opinion, of the nation's major urban areas, "if you set out to make a list, the East Bay Region must rank among the first two or three if it doesn't rank first."

Discussing an aerial tour of the two-county Park District area he made that morning, Udall observed that "it opened my eyes and sharpened by view of what you have accomplished and what, potentially, can be accomplished.

"The East Bay Regional Park District is somewhat unique in this country and I know urban America well.

"No organization which has the kind of mandate and broad scope which this organization has had for the past 38 years can fall into any other category. This is evident when one flies around the region as I did and sees the conservation work that has been done."

Udall saw new sources of federal funding for the Park District in the offing as the emphasis on the private automobile slows down.

"All signs," he said, "indicate that in the next few years we are coming to the end of this era and we are going to level off in the number of automobiles and in petroleum production.

"There will be a change in the federal Highway Trust Fund to let cities and states decide how to spend allocations in the future. There will be more mass transportation.

"You might have very handsome sums of money available for bicycle and hiking trails and parks.

"We are undergoing a shift in direction toward more outdoor recreation, more hiking and less reliance on the machine. This will mean dividends in peace of mind and health."

Udall emphasized that "Overview" is still in the "study stage" in its planning and "we would be very foolish if we didn't do a lot of listening to the best ideas. We are going to try very hard to be open-minded."

He praised the role that the "Citizens Task Force" of 83 will play in the planning input and pledged close liaison both with the Committee and the EBRPD Board.

Udall compared the park planning efforts of Chicago with those of EBRPD and commented, "They made a good start around the turn of the century and then sat back and rested on their oars. You made a good start, too, back in 1934 but now you are coming back to have everything restudied and to prepare a master plan for the future."

Recurring to the spending concept to save the environment now, before it is too late, Udall observed:

"How much we could do environmentally for so little if we were willing to make immediate investments now."

The former Secretary of the Interior said he was "amazed at how much relatively unspoiled, untouched, superior land" is still available in the two-county area for potential park purposes.

Citing the fact that parks acquired by EBRPD 30 and more years ago would be worth "a hundred times or more the amount you paid for them today," Udall concluded:

"We hope to provide you with various alternatives on how to spend the new tax funds available to you. Some of them will be conservative; some of them will be bold.

There is a Difference in Beef Grading

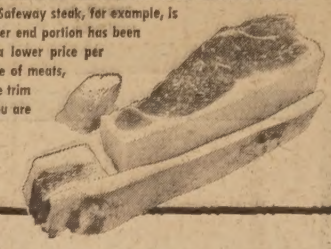

When your reputation has been built on perfect-eating meat, you don't compromise with the methods that assure top quality . . . At Safeway, every steak, and every roast of beef is USDA Choice Grade. Some coin fancy different sounding names for the lower grades they sell, but, at Safeway, every cut of beef is USDA Choice Grade. It is the grade only awarded to meat that will consistently deliver tender, juicy, flavorful cuts. Every purchase that you make at Safeway is guaranteed to please you or your money back.

USDA CHOICE

Safeway DISCOUNT Still The BEST

There is a Difference in Meat Trimming

Safeway's method of trimming meat gives you more good-eating meat on the table for your money, because excess fat and bone are cut off before the meat is weighed. The meat on every Safeway steak, for example, is all steak meat. The less tender end portion has been trimmed off to be sold at a lower price per pound. In comparing the price of meats, it will pay you to compare the trim as well. You will find that you are way ahead when you shop at Safeway Discount.
